p.41 'More Thoughts'[editorial]. Harness and saddlery from Walsall have been termed rubbish. But factory-made goods are replacing home made everywhere eg Coventry ribbons. We should accept this as fact. Division of labour tends to improve quality of things because the men become specialists. We now accept boots from Leicester and Nottingham [Northampton?], despite initial prejudice against them.

p.70 Exhibition at Saddler's Hall (part 3).

p.75 Detailed criticism of Walsall unionists by Manchester union. Walsall supported saddlers' union in 1867 but then reneged, again in 1877, 1883 and 1889. Disputes the claim that Walsall workers are the best paid, and says there are certainly more than 167 harnessmakers in the town. Similar criticisms of Walsall from the Bolton society.

p.78 Overton and Co. have produced second edition of their Saddler's Red Book.
